This is the Black Hat visualization. It is meant to depict the education rates of each county but does not do so effectively. There is a missing scale/legend, the color scheme is a bit random, and there isn't much to be learned from this visualization.

This is the White Hat Visualization. The link to the block is:

This visualization has a reasonable Yellow to Orange to Red progression, with the lowest rates of higher education in red. Each county has a tooltip that names the county and lists the specific rate of adults with only a high school diploma.
